One Stop Logistics Stop

Why stress yourself dealing with hotels, guides, coaches, restaurants and all the other parts of a successful trip when you could simply deal with an expert destination management team. We specialise in organising every aspect of your corporate incentive trip and can leverage our knowledge and buying power to get you a great deal.

Local Connections

No matter how good your internet research skills may be, local knowledge is always better. A destination management company like London Strides will have the inside track to go beyond the marketing and lead you to those hidden gems. We've also got a wide - ranging network of contacts who we can call on to turn a good trip into a great one.

Creativity

The secret to a great trip is being able to mix knowledge with a little creative flair. Knowing what has been tried before and what did and didn't work can save time, money and most importantly, reputation. With this knowledge comes the ability to mix and match experiences into something totally new and exciting. That's what a destination management team can do for you.

Cost Savings

With our insider knowledge and network of relationships spanning all aspects of the tourism, hospitality and entertainment industries, we can often get you a better deal than you could find on your own. Whether that's a bulk-buy discount on drinks or VIP-access to a venue, our contacts mean there are savings to be had. You can also save on bank fees through dealing with a single company.

Peace of Mind

The single biggest benefit of partnering with London Strides? Peace of mind. When you work with us you have a single point of contact on the ground who will bend over backwards to ensure that you and your clients are looked after and everything runs smoothly from start to finish.
